Inquiries were also sent from police headquarters as to the circumstances. Mrs. Roy was afraid to believe the news, as too good to be true."

Mr. Clarke positively refused to give the Richmond reporters any informa-tion on the subject last night. All that he would say was : "I sent the telegram It is true to the best of my information. I can say nothing further than this."

HISTORY OF BOY'S DISAFPEARANCE.

The New York Sun, March 23d, says:

Dr. Frank Austin Rey, a young dentist living at 165 west Fifty-third street, left home last Thursday afternoon with the expressed intention of delivoring a lecture at the College of Bentletry, at Third avenue and Twenty-third street. He did not note the College of Dentistry, and he has disappeared as completely as if the earth had awallowed him up the moment he left his door. Dr. Roy is thirty years old, a little below the medium beight, and would attract notice anywhere by his politic wave and the striking contrast of his coal-black hair and mousache with his intensely pallid face. He is a son of the late Dr. Edward Roy, a dentist well-known to many of the older residents of the city. He was graduated with hish honors from the College of Dentistry in 1879, and from the medical department of the University of the city of New York a year later. He is regarded as a very bright young man, and his professional practice is a lucrative and extensive one. He has contributed a great deal lately to the literature of his profession, and his articles have attracted attention. He owns in the receivement in Fifty-third street, is married, but has no children. The New York Sun, March 23d, says:

his articles have attracted attention. He owns his fine residence in Fifty-third street, is married, but has no children.

Some time age Dr. Frank Abbott, dean of the College of Dentistry, asked Dr. Roy to come down and deliver a series of lectures on the subject of food assimilation in its relation to deutistry. Dr. Roy assented, and for some time past was hard at work proparing the lectures. At 3 o'clock Thorsday afternoon he told his wife that his patients had all been attended to for the day. Then a Mr. Crocker, of 389 Fifth avenue, called, and Dr. Roy went down out, and he was busy at work in his office them. Not long after this Mrs. Roy went out, and he was busy at work in his office them. Dr. Roy's servant-girl says that the kitchen clock had just struck 4 when she heard the bell ring, calling her to the office. The American Primate Takes Formal Possession of His Titular Church-The Papal Bull of Assignment.

The other characpast 10 o'clock this morning—the day being the sacred feast-day of the An-nunciation—when Cardinal James Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, arrived at the iron gates of the portico of the Basilica of Santa Maria, in Trastevere, for the purpose of formally taking pos-ession of it as his titular church. H was arrayed in the splendid robes of a cardinal, wearing a white-fur cape, crimson-silk mantle, and long train. When he reached the door of the church he knelt upon a cushion placed there on a strip of car-

There Cardinal knelt and the Canon recited the Pater Noster and other prayers. In the apse, a throne, with white back and crimson canopy, had been placed. The Cardinal seated himself on the throne, the bishops and priests in attendance being seated about him. The prothonotary, Monsignor Pericole, thereupon read in Latin the Monsignor papel bull assigning the Church Santa Maria, in Trastevere, to Cardinal Gibcons as his titular church. CARDINAL GIBBONS'S ADDRESS.

The assignment to me by the Holy Father of this beautiful Hasilica as my titular church, fills me with feelings of Joy and gratitude, which any words of nine are wholly inadequate to express. For as here in Rome I standwithin the first temple raised in honor of the ever Riessed Virgin Mary, so in my far-off home my own Cathedral-church, the oldest in the United States, is also dedicated to the Mother of God. This venerable edifice in which we are gathered leads us back in contemplation to the days of the Catacombs. Its foundation was laid by Pope Calixtus in the year of our Lord 224. It was restored by Pope Julius in the fourth century and renovated by another supreme pontiff in the twelfth. That never-ceasing solicitude which the sovereign pontiffs have exhibited in erecting these material temples, which are the glory of this city, they have also manifested on a larger scale in rearing spiritual walls to Zion throughout christendom in every age. Scarcely were the United States of America formed into an independent Government when Pope Plus VII. established therein a Catholic hierarchy, and appointed the illustrious John Carroll first hishop of Baltimore. Our Catholic community in those days numbered only a few thousand souis, and were scattered chiefly through the States of New York, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. They were served by the merest handful of priests. But now, thanks to the fructifying grace of God, the grain of mustard-seed then planted has grown to a large tree, spreading its branches through the length and brendth of our fair land. Where only one bishop was found in the beginning of this century there are now seventy-five exceptising spiritual jurisdiction. For this great progress we are indebed, under God and the fostering care of the Holy See, to the 'civil liberty we enjoy in our enlightened republic.

Our Holy Father Leo XIII., in his laminous conscience on the constitution of the Christian The assignment to me by the Holy Father of care of the Holy See, to the civil liberty we enjoy in our enlightened republic.

Our Holy Father Leo XIII., in his luminous encyclical on the constitution of the Christian States, declares that the Church is not committed to any particular form of civil government. She ndapts herself to all; she leavens all with the sacred leaven of the Goejel; she has lived under absolute empires, under constitutional monarchies, and in free republics; and everywhere she grows and expands. She has often indeed been hampered in her divine mission. She has even heen forced to struggle for existence wherever deepotism has cast her dark shalow like a plant shut out from the blessed sunlight of heaven; but in the genial atmosphere of liberty she blossoms like a rose.

Terrible Accident on the Norfolk and Western. The Lynchburg Virginian gives the following particulars of the accident on the Norfolk and Western railroad Thurs-day, mention of which was made in our telegraphic columns yesterday:

The fifth section of eastern-bound Freight-Train No. 8 was crossing the bridge (Big Otter) when all at once the western span of the bridge was seen to sway under the weight and motion of the train, and in an instant to fall to the bottom of the deep ravine with a tremendous crash, carrying eight coal gondolas down with it, and hurling a dozen or more human beings to what seemed instant death to all, but which some of them fortunately escaped.
Several bodies were still buried under the debris of the bridge and cars when our report closed. Following is the list of the killed and injured:

Killed: Hugh Toomey (white) bridge-builder; Thomas Nolan (white) bridge-builder; Charles Williams (white), bridge-builder; George Tram-ble (white), bridge-builder.

Seriously injured: Samuel Bibb (white), bridge-builder; Howard Erown (white), bridge-builder; Robert A. Lee (white), bridge-builder. Immediately on the receipt of the news a wrecking train, with some of the officers of the road and several phy sicians on board, was dispatched to the scene of the wreck. The height of Big Otter bridge is about sixty feet, and the coal-cars which went through the span are a total wreck. The bridge was being replaced by a new iron structure under the superintendence of Captain J. W. Goodwyn, and it was probably owing to a weakening of the support of the old bridge that the accident was primarily due. Captain Osborne, conductor in charge of the train, says that he waited at the western end of the bridge fully twenty minutes, until he received the signal to proceed. None of the train-men were hurt. Captain Goodwyn had about fifteen men under Mysterious Disappearance of a Norfolk Printer-A Calker Hurt, &c.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] NORFOLK, March 25, 1887. Nothing has been ascertained to-day regarding the disappearance of Mr. Mack Nicholson, foreman of the Vir-ginian office, and the members of the Typographical Union, and District Assembly No. 123, Knights of Labor, who were searching for him, hav abandoned their efforts. The theory still is that he committed suicide, he having frequently of late expressed a determination to take his life on account of having epileptic fits. He leaves a wife and two children in Nor-folk. Some think he has returned to New York, where he was employed for ten years on the Evening Post.

Mr. James Crockett was found lying in a pool of blood on the wood-pile in his yard, on Queen street near Fairfax, with his Barlow pocket-knife near by.

His sister-in-law said that she had heard him go down stairs about midnight, and one of the neighbors had seen him in the yard between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning. It is apparent ondence of the Richmo that he went into the out-house and de-lib rately severed his jugular vein with the knife, and then went to the wood-pile and bled to death.

Mr. Crockett was a man of over sixty years of age. He was temperate and liked by all who knew him, a member of Potomac Lodge, L. O. O. F., and leaves a wife and four sons. Sickness and the less of his position made him low-suritied at times. ow-sairited at times

News has been received of a fight at Asheville between two physiciansone Dr. J. A. Watson, lately of Bay-View Hospital, Ealtimore; the other, Dr. G. W. Purefoy. The latter had made the charge that Dr. Watson had never been connected with Bay-View Hospital, and that Watson, in so sta-ting, had lied. The two met in the street. Watson struck Purefoy in the face with his hand, whereupon Purefoy, who was in a buggy, struck Watson twice with the heavy end of the whip. Bystanders then separated them. Lion H. Rogers, of Alexander county, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide. Sitting in front of a mirror he cut his throat with a pocket-knife, then went to bed and pulled the covering over him. He was discovered just in time. Physicians think his life can be saved. In a few weeks Fayettville will have the eletric light. Water will furnish the notive power. There is a good deal of indignant omment on an article in the Greensboro' Republican paper, the North State, urging the Republican clerks of the Superior Court to refuse to swear in any of the magistrates appointed by the late Legislature. This is bold and bad advice, which the clerks would not dare to follow. Such action on their part would result very seriously to them. The Republicans, angry at the manner in which the Democrats whipped them out, would like to resort to any means to secure their ends. They wished the Republicans clerks to have the opportunity of appointing the magistrates. Of course they would have appointed Republicans, ESCAPES THE GALLOWS. The death sentence of John Cardwell, a white man, who was to have been hanged at Wilkesboro' April 29th, has been commuted to imprisonment for life.

THE GREAT WRIT.

The Penalty for Ignoring Habeas Corpus. [Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

Asheville, N. C., March 25.—An eager crowd thronged the court-room this morning at 91 o'clock, the hour appointed by his Honor Judge Graves for rendering his decision in the case of W. H. Deaver and A. C. Patterson, charged with contempt of court by re-fusing to obey a writ of habeas corpus issued in a cause now more or less no-torious, and known as the Charles loodlake case. After a most graphic, lucid, and and the priceless value to the citizen of the great writ of personal liberty his Honor reviewed the facts in the case, deemed the respondents guilty, and imposed a penalty of two months' imprisonment and a fine of two thou-sand dollars each and imprisonment until paid. An appeal was taken by Charles Moore, Esq., leading counsel, and bond was fixed at $5,000 each for their appearance at the next term of the court.

THE HOUSEKEEPER'S COMPLAINT.

"I am discouraged. I have too much to do. I am tired. I am sick. I suppose I was put into this house to keep it clean, but it is too much work. I won't try. I will go to sleep. I don't care what becomes of the house."

The above is an allegory. The discouraged housekeeper is the liver, which, indeed, is often called "the housekeeper of our health." If it does go to sleep as it threatened, a crowd of diseases are all roady to spring up as a consequence. Dr. Pierco's "Golden Medical Discovery" acts upon the liver and assists it in its work of housekeeping and housecleaning. It is the great liver romedy and housecleaning, and cures all the long train of chronic maladies resulting from a terpid or sluggish, sleepy liver, such as sick headache, screfulous diseases, as alcers, "Fever sorce," "white swellings," hip-joint dischie, consumption of the lungs (which is really only screfula manifesting itself in the delicate tissues of these organe, also all skin diseases, as blotches, pimples and eruptions, and all blood taints, however acquired.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

New York, March 25.—The stock market started out this morning at a good pace, business being active and prices strong; but there were liberal realizations at the advance by cliques, and the improvement, except in a few specialities, was confined to the Grangers only. Later the usual duliness again intervened, and prices slowly but steadily yielded. There was a larger business in the leading stocks and considerable foreign buying, especially of Reading, which ruled high in London. There was considerable heaviness displayed in the truck lines, which was ascribed in part to the withdrawal of the Grand Trunk from the Central Traffic Association, and a rumor was current that a large pool was liquidating. The Grangers were again a conspicuous feature, but realizations prevented any maierial advances. Fort Worth and leaver made a material advance on beavy business for that stock. Lackawanna was active and heavy early, the favorable effects of the ampouncement of the dividend which had been more than carned being demoralised by the probability of the company being forced to pay the back taxes on Morris and Essex. The feature of the day was the unusually large number of low-priced stockeds in. The market opened firm and active for elight gains. Prices were firm until after 12 o'clock.
